Gleim CMA Review Academic Site License Terms and Conditions

Professors and accounting faculty at colleges and universities (Licensee) can obtain a free CMA Academic Site License from Gleim Publications, Inc. (Gleim) according to the following provisions:

1. Gleim will provide access to a download of the network version of CMA Test Prep Software for installation in Licensee's computer lab for student and faculty use. Students may purchase copies of the software at a discounted price to use at home so that study sessions and performance tracking data can be transferred between home and school. Students should not have the ability to log into the network and use the Test Prep Software off campus.
2. Students may purchase Review books, Test Prep Software, Audio CDs, and CMA Gleim Online at student discounted prices. Student orders under the Site License must be placed directly through Gleim. Bookstores may not purchase CMA Review materials at the Academic Site License prices.
3. Each student will provide a student email address for verification when they order. If students do not have student email addresses, Licensee must provide a roster of students' first and last names for verification. Alumni do not qualify for discounts.
4. The Licensee may request one set of CMA Review Books to be placed on reserve in the department office or in the library. Licensee may also request copies of the CMA: A System for Success booklet to distribute to students (limit 90 booklets per request).

To enroll in the complimentary site license, contact your Professor Relations Coordinator for access to the electronic agreement form. Upon receipt and processing, Gleim will provide Licensee with access to a download of the network version CMA Test Prep Software.

Gleim will grant Licensee and each of its students and faculty the nontransferable right to use these materials for the period expiring July 31st, 2010. The license may be renewed annually thereafter.
